Glory
to God in the highest heaven

You'd expect a King to be born in a royal palace. Surrounded by great luxury, the best medical attention, and no expense spared.

You'd imagine the birth would be in a great city. Not a small town in the back of beyond.

You'd think the media would be there. Not a bunch of startled shepherds.

God's ways are different to ours. Yet a chorus of angels sang "Glory to God", as we sing in the carol Hark the Herald at Christmas. Come and discover why Jesus is a king like no other – we'd love to see you.
